Our apologies to Mrs. Elizabeth H. Sloan of Irvington.

A couple of weeks ago we received from her a very nice communication in the form of a letter to the editor regarding candidates for political office. However, we have been unable to print it to date, due to lack of space.

Mrs. Sloan agrees with us that "we do not know our candidates" as a usual thing. She believes there are some candidates we should know, if we do not, and mentions Albert E. Carter, present congressman from this district; Philip Bancroft of Walnut Creek, candidate for U. S. senator; Earl B. Hodges of Centerville who seeks the county superintendent of schools post; and George Hellwig, present supervisor.

The letter deplores the lack of representation of farmers, as a class, in the national congress "to speak for us in this region, which is made up largely of farmers."

Mrs. Sloan adds that she is strong for "local color in public office; not only can we keep them in line better, but they know us better."

A case of Regina Brand peaches, packed at the Hunt Cannery at Hayward in 1937, nine months later was reposing on the shelves of a wholesale warehouse in Dunbridge Welb, Kent, England.

This was revealed when Joe Cunha, cannery employee, received a letter from Frank Groves, who unpacked the case and found the letter Cunha had tucked in among the cans.

Groves said he found Cunha's letter in the first case opened of a batch of 50.

Trustees Seek Solution To Building Problem as School Bonds Are Killed

IRVINGTON—By a narrow margin of 23 votes, the bond issue of $52,000 to build a new grammar school at Irvington failed to carry at the special election held in the district last Saturday.

Although 125 people voted in favor of the bonds and only 97 against, the favorable vote was 23 short of a two-thirds majority necessary.

Those who voted against the bond issue have not only balked efforts of the board to replace the present condemned building with one that would be declared safe for students, but have deprived the district of the $34,000 PWA grant recently made, unless some way can be devised to retain use of the money.

The board of trustees will meet tonight to consider what steps are to be taken, according to announcement by J. R. Silveria, clerk.

Several suggestions have been made—to place a direct tax of 80c or more on the district to raise the necessary funds to build a new school or repair the present one, to take out liability insurance, to call another election.

Board members have been conferring with the District Attorney's office this week. They have said they will not be satisfied until they have done all in their power to convince residents of Irvington that a safe, adequate building must replace the present dilapidated one.

"The board must do what it can so as to protect itself against liability in case of injury to students because of the condition of the building", states Dr. E. M. Grimmer, president.

NILES—A garage and woodshed at the Manuel Rego home on Third street was destroyed by fire thought to have started from a spark from a burning trash pile Tuesday afternoon. Damage was estimated at about $300. Both the Niles and the Centerville fire departments answered the alarm.

A call to go to a grass fire at Sims Place in Niles Canyon came in at the same time and local firemen notified the county department and the Southern Pacific crew. Damage to two S. P. signal poles was negligible.

Local firemen said they had been notified by the District Attorney's office not to go to fires outside the district except in cases of major conflagrations.

Three A Program For Beet Growers Given Discussion

CENTERVILLE —Both sides of the sugar beet question had an airing at Tuesday night's meeting of the Washington-Eden Farm Center at the high school.

George Smith, president of the Central California Beet Growers' Association, said the whole scheme of wages, etc., set up by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, "is cock-eyed and out of balance, has been planned wholly for the benfeit of the laborer without consideration for the grower's ability to pay," etc., etc.

Bert Smith, of the Berkeley office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, replied that while the 1938 farming practice determination had probably been more favorable to other sections than to California growers, the fact remained that the administractors were trying to do all in their power to make the program beneficial to growers and that their cooperation was asked in sending suggestions to the hearing at Sacramento next Monday and Tuesday at which time the 1939 program would be drawn up.

A second hearing will be held in Los Angeles on Aug. 25 and 26.

Smith said the administration was being careful regarding classifcation of cover crops to qualify beets because they had been "accused of paying people for plowing under toothbrushes."

Another speaker introduced by Herbert Young, district chairman, was Gordon Lyons, secretary of the Central California Beet Growers' Association. He said that sugar beet growing was an indispensable industry and one that conributed to the community as a whole. The industry gives $30 an acre to labor, $35,000,000 to the railroads and contributes to the cotton and other industries.

California is second in the country in acreage in sugar beets and will probably be first in production. The grower in California averages 100 acres and in other states, only 20. The association now has 500 members with six districts and a seventh in the process of being formed at Sacramento.

Both Judge Silva and Deputy District Attorney Joe Schenone reprimanded both complainants and defendants for letting neighborhood quarrels be brought into court.

Two Members Of Family Narrowly Escape Ranch Fire

IRVINGTON — It was just another fire to the passing motorists who watched the home of the Pigue family, Texas fruit workers, converted to ashes within less than an hour. The five room cottage on the Nori Nagai place at Warm Springs, an automobile and all the possessions of the Pigues, including $10 in currency and $15 worth of new clothes purchased for the opening of school, were completely destroyed.

Mrs. Pigue was forced to flee from the house without her shoes. She had been lying on the bed and heard the roar but thought it was a passing train. One of the small children playing in the yard ran in to tell her the house was on fire and she and her daughter, Frenchew, 14, barely escaped before the roof fell in.

The younger Pigue children are Virginia, 11; June, 7; Joe 4. The husband, Richard Pigue, and a son, Herbert, 18, were at Milpitas working in a pear orchard at the time. The family came here from Texas a year ago. They were given refuge at the home of friends.

The Irvington fire department was called and saved adjoining buildings on the Nagai place. The fire is thought to have started in a room filled with newspapers to be used on the Nagai celery ranch. Damage was not estimated.

VOTE ON AUGUST 30

This is the year and the season, with the State primary less than two weeks away, when California not only has ears attuned to the hum of an accelerating business dynamo, but also to the voices in the political arena.

But a word to the wise on that score is sufficient, for they know one vote in the August primary is worth a dozen in November. On the last Tuesday in August each voter's ballot can go to the man of his choice. But if he shirks his duty until November, he will find his choice restricted to those nominated in August leaving a Hobson's choice!

This year the voter's responsibility is doubly important. With the business index swinging upward the need of representatives to carry that upturn through to completion is imperative. California, like other states, can ill afford to place the management of its affairs in the hands of those bent on furthering impractical proposals and pet peeves.

We have already heard of the super-spending plan of the senator who wanted to build some eight billion dollar roads and the super-censorship plan of a congressman to establish dictatorship over the press.

But the last-chance voter has small cause for complaint if similar foolish schemes arise in the future through his failure to help elect more enlightened representatives. August 30 is more than a week away—time enough for every registered Californian to make it a must-vote day!
